Quick Summary

- Q1 results pretty solid considering COVID-19 impacts.
  - Adjusted EPS of $0.44 was below consensus $0.49 (we were $0.48; guidance was $0.49-0.53). The press release noted ~$0.09 of COVID-19 related headwind.
  - Revenue of $411 million was ~1% below consensus $415 million (we were $418 million; guidance was $417-422 million). We estimate +3% organic constant-fx after ~0.7% headwind from fx (we estimate +2% organic constant-fx in Q4).
  - Q1 commentary: New client wins and existing/new program expansion across financial services/technology/healthcare more than offset lower demand in the communications/transportation/leisure/other.
  - Exiting Q1 -- we guess they were tracking to high end of revenue guidance until March, meaning ~$10-15 million shortfall on a monthly run rate of ~$140 million, or a ~10% impact.
  - Suspended 2020 guidance due to COVID-19 on Q1 call - The impact to clients, lines of businesses, geographies and verticals will be different.
  - Strong industries - Food delivery/digital business services, along with opportunities related to hardship support for its bank/credit card clients, support for fintech apps, communications and retail verticals.
  - Headwinds - Lower demand in travel (~5% of revenue from affected travel), impact of global unemployment, uncertainty how clients will change service level expectations/service delivery strategies.

- Q2-20 Estimates provided on Q1 earnings:
  - Revenue: Our $369 million estimate reflects ~10% sequential decline (~$42 million sequential decline) which includes typical seasonality (Q2 has averaged down ~3% sequentially the last 3 years) in addition to weak core and travel trends (~7% sequential impact).
  - EPS: Our $0.05 reflects adjusted margin of 1.0%, assuming ~$26 million sequential decline in EBIT on a $42 million sequential revenue decline (~$3 million from typical seasonality; ~$23 million from weak core/travel trends).

- Interesting items from Q1 call:
  - Client demand for remote work: Certain work with more security concerns will need to be done in a center (ex: banking, some healthcare, etc.).
  - At home margins: No deterioration in margins due to remote employees
  - Sales pipeline: Depending on the client, they have seen some acceleration, some delays, and some slowdown; not seeing any cancellations.
  - Our $34 price target reflects ~14.5X our prospective NTM EPS a year from now of $2.40 (using 12 months ending 6/30/22). This reflects ~26% discount to the S&P NTM P/E (near the three-year average of a 19% discount due to choppy revenue/margin trends).

Investment Thesis

Leader in contact center outsourcing. As a leading provider of contact center outsourcing services, we believe Sykes has gained scale advantages and the ability to invest in offshore capacity, where Sykes has been a leader.

Trend toward contact center outsourcing. We expect companies to continue to shift toward outsourced solutions over the next several years, given what we estimate to be savings of 20% domestically, and around 40-50% for offshore solutions.

Risks & Caveats

Technology/telecom revenue concentration. Sykes generates ~40-45% of its revenue by providing technical and customer support for technology and telecom-related companies. Given this high vertical concentration, Sykes has a high degree of sensitivity to the overall industry trends.

Changes in consumer preferences. If consumers change preferences toward more self-service/digital and away from direct calling into customer care centers, it could hurt revenue growth.

Highly competitive industry/pricing pressure. Both from a direct competitor's standpoint and from an end-market perspective, Sykes participates in a highly competitive industry. As such, pricing pressures are always an area of concern.

Economic sensitivity. Economic weakness can translate into lower call volumes and customer interactions.

Ownership concentration. Founder and retired CEO John Sykes remains a large stockholder owning around 10% of the outstanding stock. As a result, we believe he continues to have some degree of influence.
